All Must Observe Simple Rules of Highway Safety

"If we are to solve the problem of traffic accidents involving children, we must have cooperative action by everyone concerned," our State Police remind us. "This means that parents, motorists and children themselves must work together to achieve safety."

The State Police listed some rules for parents, motorists and children. Rules for Parents:

1. Remember, your own traffic behavior is the big influence in your children's behavior.
2. See that your children play in approved play areas and impress upon them the danger of playing in the street or near moving traffic.
3. Children should be taught to use roller skates, tricycles, bicycles, scooters and wagons with skill and should be required to practice safety rules when using them.
4. Impress children with the importance of traffic safety rules so that they will give unquestioning respect and obedience to them.

Rules for Motorists:

1. Expect the unexpected from children. Their actions are unpredictable.
2. School areas are danger spots. When near them be alert for signs, signals, traffic police, patrol boys and children themselves.
3. Decrease speed and increase vigilance when near playgrounds or residential areas.
4. Don't compete with bike riders. Give them a break.

Rules for Children:

1. Traffic officers, school patrols, traffic signs and signals are your friends. Obey them.
2. Observe rules about crossing streets safely and about playing only in safe places.
3. Take the safest route going to and from school.
4. If there are no sidewalks, walk on the left side of the road facing traffic.
5. Use roller skates, tricycles, wagons and scooters on the sidewalk only—not in streets.
6. Know and practice the rules for safe bicycle riding.

COMMENTS FROM THE OFFICE OF THE TOWN MANAGER

We now have at the office, the 1955 Excise Tax and Registration application blanks for Motor Vehicles. Those of you who wish to register cars and trucks early may apply any time now; as you know the 1955 plates may be displayed directly after Christmas.

We have received several questions recently about bicycles being ridden on the sidewalks. I fail to find any Maine law in regard to this; but the law does allow each Town or Village to pass its own ordinance.

The Bethel Village Corporation Article No. 7 states: "No person shall ride a bicycle upon any sidewalk within the limits of the Corporation."

The respect of this ordinance will of course be appreciated by the people walking on the sidewalks. O. T. Rozelle

Salvation Army Appeal Soon To Be Completed

A Salvation Army representative, Henry Remington, is now at work in this vicinity completing the annual solicitation of funds for this great program of service and relief. Response to the mail appeal locally this summer was not up to the expected mark, and it is hoped that generous contributions now will approach the needed quota.

Apparently many do not understand the uses of Salvation Army funds obtained through these annual appeals. Part of the money is retained locally for use in needy cases, and the rest is forwarded to the state headquarters. For several years expenditures from the local fund have exceeded the amount apportioned for use here. This has been due in part to contributions asked and granted to other areas in times of disaster.

Local expenditures generally include aid for clothing, groceries, hospital expenses and transient and funeral assistance. A large item in local expenses is providing food in needy transient cases, where for several years town policy has not provided meals for unfortunate travellers.

"There, but for the grace of God, go I."

Read I Corinthians, Chapter 13
Now abideth faith, hope, love, these three; and the greatest of these is love. (I Corinthians 13:13, ASV).

SEVERAL days ago I read an article by Mr. Kim Kiang in the Korean "Survey." He tells about climbing a mountain and finding a soldier of another country. The soldier had died of wounds received in combat.

As Mr. Kiang looked at the body lying dead on a foreign soil with no friend and no family to give it proper burial, he says he himself began to look upon the departed one as his friend. He saw the light coming from the body and perceived a grave beside his own father's grave. Although he did not know the name of the soldier, he felt that the soldier was his friend.

Mr. Kiang, he buried the body with the same honor and respect he would pay to a close relative. Love, Christian love, is unselfish. Do we, for love's sake, forget ourselves as Mr. Kiang did? He knew that he would be killed if he were caught burying this soldier. It is not always easy to be loving and to show forth that love, but we must make Christ's way a part of our everyday life.

Prayer
O Thou who art love, help us to love Thee. Help us to love our fellow men as Thou wouldst have us to do. Teach us to give ourselves in unselfish service. In Jesus' name, Amen.

Thought For The Day
God is love. And His love in us makes Christian fellowship possible. —In Book Moon (Korean)

SUNDAY'S SERMON
REV. ROBERT E. HARPER
Job's Struggle to Understand Life
Lesson for October 3: Job 1: 1-19
Job 2: 1-10
Golden Text: Jeremiah 29: 13.

We know nothing concerning Job beyond what is told of him in the precise introduction of the book that bears his name. It is said that he was of the land of Uz and one of the greatest of the men of the east. He was one rich man who was a man of great faith and piety. Night and morn he offered sacrifice in his home. And, as we learn from his laments after earthly ruin and loss, some disease had come upon him, he had been "eyes to the blind" and "feet to the lame."

But dire disaster came upon him. All he had was swept away by one calamity after another and all his sons and daughters were killed in a terrible storm. Then dire disease fastened upon him. He was covered with sore boils from the crown of his head to the soles of his feet. And he took a potholder to scrape himself withal and he sat down in the ashes.

All this, we learn, came upon him because Satan had charged that Job was good only because it paid him to be good and that in disaster and ruin he would curse God. And Job retained his integrity and ever demonstrated that men can be good in obedience to God's will.

In the lesson text, we find Job searching for light and understanding in the midst of his unparalleled sufferings and gaining the assurance that he would "come forth as gold."

An apple eaten after a meal can pinch but for a toothbrush, points out Dr. Kathryn B. Briwa, Maine Extension Service foods specialist. Apple crisp is a favorite dessert in Maine. A recipe for it is given in Maine Extension Bulletin 409, "Home Uses for Maine Apples." County Extension Service offices have copies.

COULD ACADEMY
GOULD TEAMS TRAVEL
This week end both the Gould cross country team and the football team will be playing away from home. On Friday the football team will be at Dixfield for their opener. The starting time is 3:30 p. m.

Coach Bob Scott will take his charges to South Paris on Saturday. The Huskies are making a late start as this will be their first game. Paris has played both Bridgton and Norway and should be in tip form by now. The Gould squad has been hampered by numerous injuries but only Bill Daley and Joel Stevens will probably be out of action. This game, previously scheduled as a home game for Gould, has been transferred to South Paris. Actually the game will be played on the Norway Fair Grounds with the starting time set for 2 p. m.

Members of the Student Council have selected the following squads of cheerleaders for the school year 1954-1955. Members of the varsity squad are Suzanne Wight, head cheerleader, Cleta Waldron, Martha Myers, Sandra Myers, and Patricia Gunther. Members of the junior varsity are Roberta Bean, head cheerleader, Nancy Bales, Glenyce Berry, Lillian Currier, and Rose Beverage.

Members of the senior class have elected the following officers for the ensuing year. President, Curtney Mead; Vice President, Wendell Bragg; Secretary, Sue Stowell; Treasurer, Verne Corkum.

Sporting goods produced in Maine are shipped all over the United States and Canada.

Few Precautions Make Floor Installation Easy

from SMALL HOMES GUIDE
Hardwood flooring—favored by most people for its beauty and durability—is easy to install, according to Small Homes Guide, provided a few precautions are taken. Lay the floor last, after plaster, concrete and life work have dried and woodwork and trim have been installed. Make sure the house is warm and dry. Allow for expansion along the walls.

HARDWOOD TOP FLOORING
SOFTWOOD SUB-FLOORING

Sub-flooring—of softwood, 25/32-inch thick—should be well seasoned, laid diagonally with two 16d nails at each joist and board end.

Sub-flooring of 5/8-inch plywood is also recommended because of its enormous strength. Joists should be bridged at least every eight feet.

With concrete slab construction, an underfill of cinder or washed gravel is usually necessary. Also use a felt waterproofing membrane.

VAPOR BARRIER PAPER
Use a moisture barrier flooring paper between subfloor and finish floor. Provide ventilation to avoid sealed-in dampness.

HAY SUPPLY ADEQUATE, BUT OF POOR QUALITY
Although most Maine dairymen stored enough hay this summer to see them through the winter, the quality in general is poor. Late cutting and the fact that much of the hay was rained on while being cured in the field are the usual reasons for the poor quality. Many Aroostook and Somerset county dairymen are short of hay, and this is also true in other local areas. Ralph Corbett, Extension dairyman, suggests that many Maine dairymen will need to feed an 18 or 20 per cent protein grain ration with their poor hay, rather than the usual 16 per cent. Farmers who put up grass silage are generally in the best position now.

By LYN CONNELLY

TENNESSEE ERNIE, the popular singer who's winning thousands of fans with his "pea-pickin'" type of humor, got started in show business a mere five years ago. Since then, he's played every top night club, sold millions of records and now has his own daily network radio show.

His first break came when he was a hillbilly disc jockey in Pasadena, Cal. It seems Ernie used to run into the studio while Cliff Stone, a veteran of western music, was airing his show, exchange a few jokes, sing a few numbers and then disappear.

It was all in fun, for which he was paid nothing. Any other entertainer might have become irritated with such a young upstart—but not Cliff. Recognizing Ernie's great potentialities, he insisted that Ernie join his gang as a regular and for money.

Ever since, the lad's popularity has spread like wildfire. He's a natural showman and can deliver a song "Tennessee" style, "Vaughn Monroe" style or "boop" style with equal aplomb. "I Love Lucy" was never funnier than when Ernie appeared on it as Lucy's country cousin. He now has revived Kay Kyser's old "College of Musical Knowledge."

PLATTER CHATTER

CAPITOL—More wonderful hit discs for your collection! There's Joe "Fingers" Carr whose plans playing is something to write home about. He plays such old favorites as "Red Wing," "Johnson Rag," "You Are My Sunshine," "Nobody's Sweetheart," "Goofus," "I Ain't Got Nobody," etc. Stan Kenton has another fine platter in Kenton Showers, this time featuring the unusual music of Bill Holman. The Four Freshmen do a honey with "Street of Dreams," "After You," "We'll Be Together Again," "My Heart Stood Still," "Mood Indigo," "Over the Rainbow" and others.

Speaking of PUBLIC SAFETY

20,000 persons are duped to death each year by the fallacy that you are safer driving at night simply because there is less traffic. Actually, you need only a glimpse of the traffic accident picture to realize how fallacious that reasoning really is.

Out of every hundred fatal accidents, 60 occur in the dark when only 25 of every 100 vehicles are operating. In addition to the 20,000 lives, the night toll last year was $90,000 injured and $1 billion of economic loss.

It is because of the greater danger of fatality at night that motorists are urged to observe special safety precautions after dark.

REDUCED SPEED: Driving at night should always be at speeds which permit stopping within range of headlight vision.

WATCH FOR SIGNAL CRASHERS: Never crash lights nor stop signs and don't ever move into an intersection until you have looked in both directions after the light has changed. Don't assume that a green light means safety! Too many drivers like to race through the red end of a light change.

PROPER VEHICLE LIGHTING: Headlights should be accurately focused, kept clean, and rear lights properly operating. Directional signal lights, both front and rear, aid in signaling but no driver at night should assume the mere act of signaling his intent will prevent an accident. He should never intersect traffic unless absolutely sure he has ample time to avoid a "close call."

DON'T DRIVE IF DROWSY: Night driving requires keenness of all faculties. Seconds save lives. If you feel sleepy, don't drive. Thousands of people are killed because either they or the drivers who hit them dozed for an instant.

AVOID ALCOHOL: Darkness which dulls vision and physical reactions is a deadly combination at night. If you must drink, for humanity's sake don't drive. Motorists are urged to observe these precautions at night to compensate for the inadequate visibility which will continue to make night driving dangerous until street lighting is made adequate in cities and towns and on critical accident-prone areas of highways.

It is the salt of conversation, not the food. —William Hazlitt

Eight Major League Clubs to Center Build-Up Drives on Pitching

Now that major league baseball for 1955 is just about history, club owners look forward to 1956 with one thought in mind—rebuilding. The key word is strength. The Sporting News, through a survey made by their ace writers, gives a picture this week of how the various clubs hope to add that strength.

At least eight major league clubs, headed by the dethroned champion Yankees and Dodgers, are looking for pitching strength. These are the Giants, Cardinals, Cubs, Reds, Athletics and Tigers. Others, like the champion Indians, are looking for more hitting power. In this group are the White Sox, Orioles, Phillies, and Braves. The Senators and Pirates and infield and outfield replacements, and the Red Sox want to get a shortstop or second baseman.

Most of the clubs that want more hitting power, says The Sporting News, are in a position to give up a pitcher or two to get the men they need. That puts them in a strong position for talking trade.

The Yankees, who will be under Casey Stengel again, may make some radical changes next year. There's talk that Mickey Vernon may go to shortstop, to replace the aging Thruzo, and Yogi Berra going to third. The Yankees have three crack catchers coming up from the minors. The Bombers also need mound reinforcements.

The Dodgers don't seem to be in need of a mass break-up, but they must have a mound stopper. Preacher Roe is aging. Most of the older pitchers have had a good season except Roy Campanella, and his hand injury may be thoroughly healed by spring.

The Phillies' big need is for a power hitter to drive in men on base. While several players had fine years at bat, the Phils were about 75 runs behind their production of a year ago.

Manager Lou Boudreau of the Red Sox says the poor showing of his club was a faulty defense. He's looking for a shortstop or a second baseman. He may try to lure Billy Herman to the ball.

The Cardinals had a good hitting club and got fair fielding. But the pitching let down. There are reports that Red Schoendienst may be offered to the Phillies for Chris Simmons. Or perhaps Haddock and Jensen may be the bait.

Marty Marion as the new White Sox manager believes he can help his club by building a strong bench. He wants some power to fall back on in the pinch. As for the Chicago Cubs, there are those who feel that a thorough rebuilding is necessary if the club is to be saved from the second division.

The Indians, while champions, expect to be stronger next year, because Al Smith will be a regular from the start and they look for better pitching, if that's possible, with the addition of Herb Score from Indianapolis.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, as much as any of them, need strengthening, but prospects are thin because the Pirates have little of value on the trading marts. A drastic overhauling seems in order in Washington, which has had nine years in the second division. The Senators need two hard hitting outfielders, a second baseman and shortstop. They have fair pitching and that's not a desperate problem.

Cincinnati needs pitching, and to get it may put a half dozen of its present pitchers on the block. It has a first class infield and outfield, and adequate catching. The Athletics say they'll de-emphasize youth and try to get some oldsters to balance and give steadiness to the team. They want strength everywhere.

Milwaukee has no desperate situation, but would like a catcher to help out Del Crandall, preferably one who hits left handed. For the Detroit Tigers, the call is for three or four good pitchers, and some long ball hitters. Any one of the clubs would be happy to settle for that.

No baseball manager, says the Sporting News, can match the record of Al Lopez. In his seven years as a pilot, his teams have never finished worse than second. In 1948, his first season, his Indianapolis club won 100 games and took the American Association pennant. He finished second there the next two years, but once led his team to the Junior World's Series title. In his first three years with the Indians, he finished second. This year—first, Lopez' winning percentage over seven years is about .620.

Former Pitcher Lon Warneke, who has just completed six years as a National League umpire, says he'd rather officiate behind the plate than on the bases, particularly third base. A quote in The Sporting News, Warneke says that behind the plate the game is always moving. The action seems much slower from third base.

"I REMEMBER"

BY THE OLDTIMERS

From H. V. Clark, Hot Springs, Montana: I remember over fifty years ago at Plev, Missouri, when folks in our neighborhood, including ourselves didn't bother to gather eggs except for family use.

The stores would pay two and one-half cents per dozen and that would have to be taken in trade. The kids over the countryside would take eggs to the store and accept candy in trade.

Most of the people didn't let many hens set in the chicken house, as enough laid their nests outside to keep the increase needed for the size flock they wanted to keep.

From George Tucker, Tallulah, Louisiana: I remember years ago, as a little boy in Faunsdale, Alabama, there were no iron-beam plows. All were wood except the point which was hand-made of steel. My twin brother would "drive" and I would hold the plow.

From Mrs. Sybil Pendery, Cincinnati, Ohio: I remember my childhood on a Mississippi farm when mother took two ears of corn and made two lovely dolls for twin sister and me. She left the bright colored corn silk on the cob for the hair. We were so delighted we ran down to the road and waited for the mailman to drive up in his horse and buggy so we could show the dolls to him. I also remember our large family sitting around an open fireplace, harmonizing in song.

BACKGROUND: ASIA

Years of Colonial Rule Made Indochina Easy Propaganda Mark, Set Up Communist Victory

By WALTER SNEAD
Washington Correspondent,
National Weekly Newspaper Service.

TO GET at the real crux of what happened and what is happening in Indochina, or in the whole of South Asia, for that matter, one must lift a backdrop of centuries of colonial rule and exploitation of peoples and resources by the western powers.

The civil war against the French which started in Vietnam in 1940 was a manifestation of the general unrest among the peoples of South Asia which has resulted: (1) in the independence of India which has been given dominion status by the British; (2) the independence of Indonesia, which won freedom from the Dutch; and (3) self-rule in Burma, though not complete independence from Britain. This sweep of nationalism has won also a measure of self-rule in the federated Malay states.

French Indochina is made up of the two independent kingdoms of Laos and Cambodia, which date back centuries, and Vietnam which is a federation of the states of Tonkin in the north, of Annam, a former kingdom in the center and the former French colony of Cochinchina in the south, all within the French Union.

Of these three states, Vietnam is the more important with a population of some 23 million. Laos contains 12 million with about 3 1/2 million in Cambodia. A million or so Chinese live in Vietnam, most of them around Cholon and Saigon in Cochinchina. A large number of Thai and Mol and other tribal people live in the mountains of the central regions. So the total population is around 29 million people alternately squeezed and scattered over 260,000 square miles, an area one-third larger than France, and twice the size of the British Isles. The Vietnamese have their own language, a mixture of government, system of education, religion and family patterns. Centuries of infiltration have left the population, however, a tangle of influence, mostly Chinese. In Laos and Cambodia, their culture and traditions are symbolized in magnificent temples and the ruins of Angkor, dating back to Indian inspiration.

The truth of the matter is, that as a result of so many centuries of colonial rule these peoples in south Asia, who seek to revive and reassert their own cultural and historic traditions have been easy prey to the propaganda, the promises of agrarian reform and the help of Russian Communism, and more recently of Red Chinese communism.

Despite the fact that in 1949 France, which has held complete sway over Indochina since 1880, and parts of it since 1858, promised independence to Vietnam, it was comparatively easy for the Moscow trained Red Chinese leader Ho Chi Minh to sway the nationalist leaders of the rebellious Vietnamese into accepting aid from Red China in their fight for freedom. A year ago, in July 1953, the French signed a pact with Bao Dai, former emperor of Annam and now chief of state of Vietnam, for complete independence of his country, once a stable government was assured. However the communists were able to prevent any stable government and the French and Vietnamese troops were routed and forced to move out of Hanoi, the capital, leaving the Reds in full control of the northern section of the country.

What happened at Geneva merely made the French defeat official, and more, gained a partition of the country about midway down the narrow neck near the town of Hue, insofar as the French were concerned, it was a peace at any price for the new French premier, Mr. Mendes France. It was a disastrous defeat for the western powers and another communist victory in the Far East in the continuing battle to keep Communistic imperialism from winning by erosion more territory in that part of the world. It means that approximately 13 million more people in north and central Vietnam are today behind the iron curtain, as a result of the ratification at the Geneva conference in which our country, together with Britain, France, Russia and Red China participated.

The question now arises, will the Chinese Reds and their Moscow allies be content and permit the rest of Indochina to work out their independence from the French? The answer of course, is a well known "No," for the pattern of Communist aggression does not work in that fashion.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles early this year pointed out the danger of any successful communist coup in Indochina. He said:

"The tragedy would not stop there. If the communist forces won uncontested control over Indochina or any substantial part thereof, they would surely resume the same pattern of aggression against other free peoples in the area. The propagandists of Red China and Russia make it apparent that the purpose is to dominate all of southeast Asia." President Eisenhower himself expressed his concern over possible loss of Indochina to the Reds as one of "transcendent importance."

So the process of erosion will continue. And at this writing it appears it may continue unchecked in the Far East, lest we become involved in a shooting war either unilaterally or with our western allies, against Red China.

In the meantime the fate of the rest of Indochina, of Thailand, of Burma, of Malaya and the rest of the underbelly of the Asian continent hangs in the balance.

(Editor's note: This is the first of four articles relative to the Communist victory in French Indochina and what it will mean to the United States and the rest of the free world. The next article will cover United States policy in the Far East with particular emphasis on Indochina.)
